We all know how they are very healthy and offer many health benefits, however many of us are more attracted to herbs just because we love the flavor or taste they give or add to our foods. Whatever your reasons are the bottom-line is that your fresh herbs will definitely add some wonderful flavor to your life! Growing your own herbs is also going to save you the trip and expense of going to the grocery store to pick them up, often waiting in long line-ups to pay for them. Another wonderful bonus to growing your own herbs is the healthy fact that they will be organic, chemical-free! We all know how expensive organic foods are at the grocery stores. Think of how nice it will be to offer your loved ones foods that you know have organic herbs added to them. This will certianly make you feel better about what you are feeding yourself and your loved ones. This is a great book that guides you with ease into becoming a herbal gardener from a beginners level. Keep in mind that herbs are easy to grow as long as they have a little sunshine, and soil mixed with a bit of compost, and you are pretty much off to the races with growing your organic herbs. I wish you great success in turning your thumb green!
